

Biometric Time Attendance System

By : John Waugh

In the era of Science and Technology, Biometric Technology is becoming more and more useful with its bunches of applications. Now a day there are very rare areas where biometrics not used. It is useful at shops, schools, offices, organizations, companies and libraries no matter how small or big it is. Biometrics has wide range of applications ranging from visitor management, access control system, biometric door locks, finger print readers and face recognition systems.

Biometric time attendance is one of the most powerful applications of biometric technology. It is widely used at schools, colleges, business firms, shopping malls, companies and organizations.

Biometric time attendance system used to track each and every person coming to your place is actually who he claims to be or not with its time and other details. It uses face recognition system to verify person's identity and record its time-in and time-out with all required details.

Advantages of biometric time attendance system:

It has many advantages over conventional time tracking used at organizations. Typically such organizations maintain a register book, where people entry their name, time-in, time-out and other required details but the problem with this manual system is inaccuracy, time consuming, unreliable and most important is less secure.

Biometric time attendance is very user friendly and easy to use; any person can use it very easily. It is very fast also, user has to see once in front of system and all details including its time will be recorded automatically. In this way it saves lot of time and still record details very accurately. One can avoid early punching, late punching and buddy punching very easily.

Many schools, college used Biometric Time Attendance to track their student's attendance. The Biggest advantage of Biometric Time Attendance over manual tracking is better security. Many shops and shopping mall use biometric time attendance for security purpose and it really works a lot.

If someone wants to use it for business or organization, then they can easily integrate it to payroll systems, account systems and billing systems. So in that way it is very flexible also and it also shows that time attendance system can be used for all type of business and organizations with great flexibility.

In a nutshell biometric time attendance solution permits you to focus on your core business by giving quickest and easiest way to overcome your time tracking issues.